

Musō Collection (夢想)

spring-summer
2025

EDITO

For this new collection named Musō (夢想), Frédérique Lepers was inspired by the silent, poetic landscapes of Japan, capturing the essence of the country in delicate patterns. Each piece evokes a fleeting moment, a minimalist mood.

Shades of indigo blue, sage green and deep red create subtle panoramas, between tradition and modernity.

Each rug seems to tell the story of a journey through Japanese nature, where the art of living blends with simplicity.

Clean lines and varied textures recall the Zen aesthetic, inviting meditation, escape and inner harmony.

mae

Like an abstract painting, Maé unfurls a flower inspired by a Japanese water iris, its purple and brown petals undulating in the air, caressed by touches of deep blue and rich orange.

The harmony of colors dances, fragile and vibrant, like a suspended breath. The soothing blue counterbalances the warmth of the orange-red, creating a perfect balance. Under the eye, each petal seems to whisper a secret of pure beauty.

Browned color

Hand-knotted 86,000 knots/sqm

100% New Zealand wool

way

Way unfurls paths, sketched like brushstrokes on an infinite canvas. The strokes, sometimes precise, sometimes blurred, capture the wandering of Japanese country lanes, imbued with serenity.

Between the shades of gray, we sense the echo of footsteps, the scent of an intimate journey.

Each stroke paints a promise: to lose oneself in order to rediscover the harmony of the world.

Gray colors

Hand-woven and hand-printed

100% Tencel

kigumi

This wool rug intertwines like a tribute to Kigumi (木組み), literally “wood assembly” the traditional Japanese technique of assembling pieces of wood without nails or screws. Each piece of wood is cut with extreme precision to fit perfectly with the others.

Beige and brown tones respond softly to each other, evoking the warm nuances of oak and cedar.

The subtle, geometric, criss-crossing patterns speak of the art of perfect union, one that links solidity and grace. A whisper of ancestral harmony underfoot, an echo of traditions sculpted by time, a setting for the soul and the eye.

Ash tree color

Tufted 4kg/sqm

22% New Zealand Wool, 78% Tencel

green

Green describes a glade of light and shadow, capturing the soul of Japanese undergrowth.

The deep hues evoke the density of the foliage, a secret setting where silence reigns. Golden flashes, like kisses from the sun, caress the highest leaves, drawing dancing reflections.

With every step, we whisper the serenity of a forest where time seems suspended.

Moss color

Tufted 3 kg/sqm

75% New Zealand Wool, 25% Tencel

lava

Lava stretches out in an almost perfect circle, a hushed horizon where fog dances around the breath of a dormant volcano. Vaporious shades of gray and white mingle like veils, blurring the contours of the world. Glowing flashes emerge, echoes of fire beneath the surface, promises of hidden power.

This rug is a window into an ethereal landscape, where mystery and strength meet in a whisper of warmth.

Smoky gray color
Hand-woven and hand-printed
100% Tencel

swan

Swan unfolds a symphony of vibrant colors delicately combined. Vibrant yellow captures the light of a dawning sunrise, while shades of deep blue evoke the tranquil reflections of the waters of Lake Tazawa.

Touches of ochre earth anchor the composition, recalling the richness of Japan's natural landscapes. Each hue intertwines in Zen harmony, celebrating the ephemeral beauty of dawn.

Sunshine yellow

Hand-knotted 86,000 knots/sq.

77% New Zealand Wool, 23% Tencel

kodama

Kodama stretches out like a secret sanctuary where the spirit of the forest silently watches over us. Its stylized trees, depicted in navy blue, rise like ethereal silhouettes, imbued with a mysterious, protective force.

The soft, soothing sky-blue background seems to capture the light of a misty morning, when the forest whispers ancient secrets. Each fiber seems to vibrate with a secret energy, a tribute to the invisible soul of trees and the fragile balance of nature.

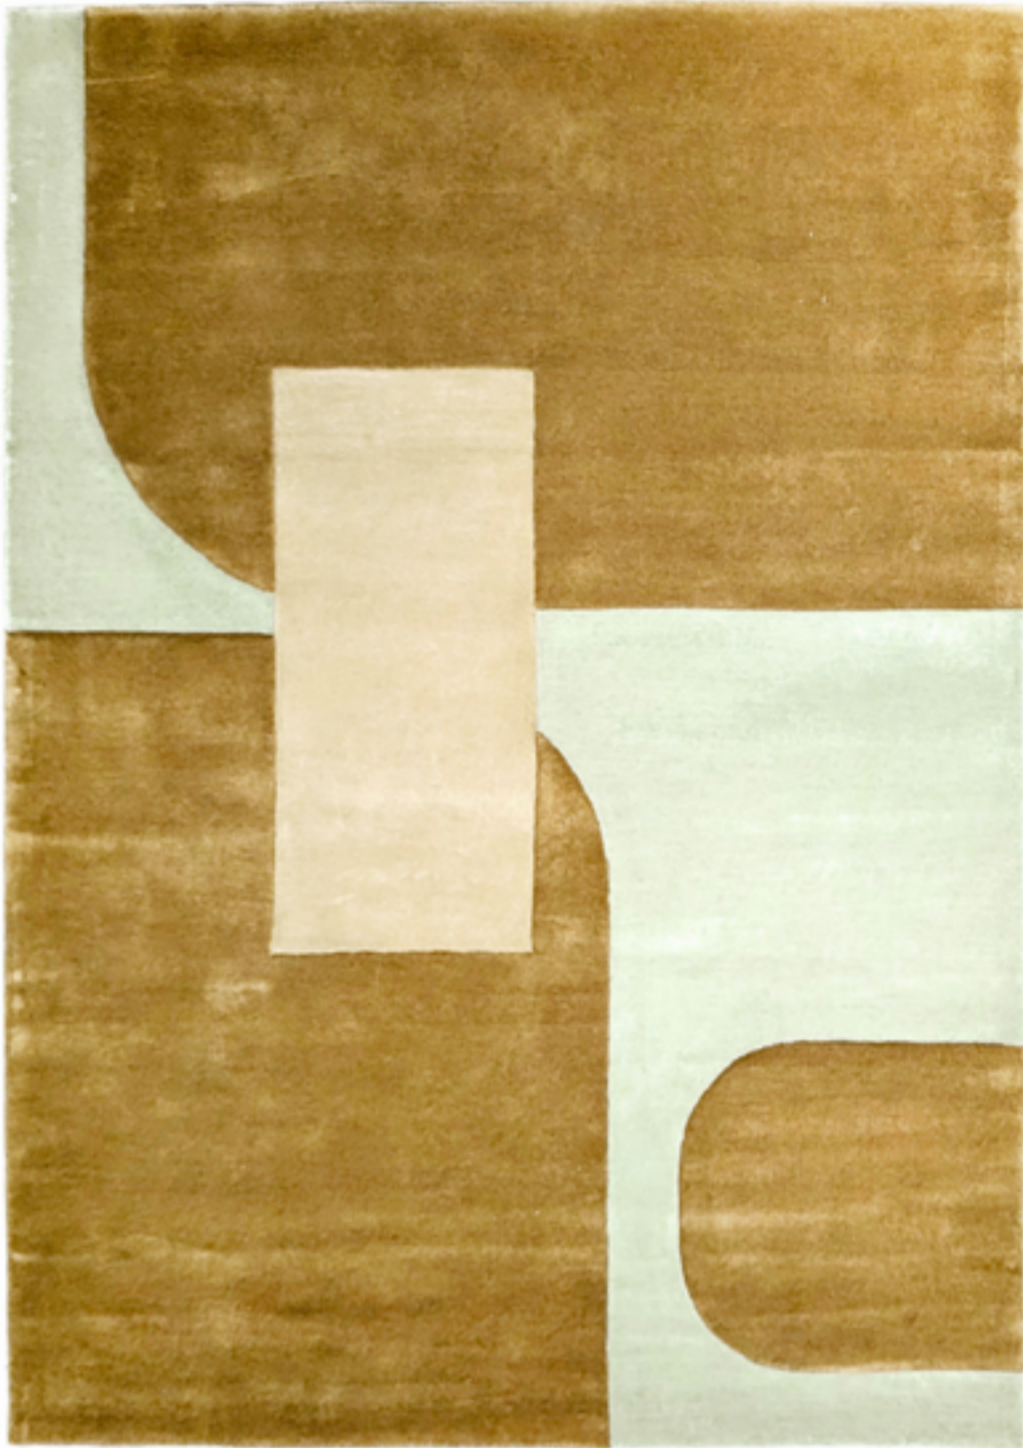

Azure color

Hand-knotted 86,000 knots/sqm

88% New Zealand Wool, 12% Tencel

escapade

Kodama stretches out like a secret sanctuary where the spirit of the forest silently watches over us. Its stylized trees, depicted in navy blue, rise like ethereal silhouettes, imbued with a mysterious, protective force.

The soft, soothing sky-blue background seems to capture the light of a misty morning, when the forest whispers ancient secrets. Each fiber seems to vibrate with a secret energy, a tribute to the invisible soul of trees and the fragile balance of nature.

Azure color

Hand-knotted 86,000 knots/sqm

88% New Zealand Wool, 12% Tencel

ground

An irregularly shaped carpet stretches out like a striking earth rift, inspired by Japanese aesthetics. Its broken contours evoke a mysterious passage, a threshold between two worlds. Deep shades of blue and beige contrast with powdery flashes of light, symbolizing the light of renewal. It invites reflection and discovery, an open door to the unknown. A subtle invitation to cross the threshold into a world of dreams.

Iron oxide color
Hand-knotted 86,000 knots/sqm
25% New Zealand Wool, 75% Tencel

+33(0)3 2048 7344
hello@sergelesage.com
sergelesage.com

